PARK PRIDE Questions

1. Campagnolo is an Italian bar & restaurant located at 980 Piedmont Avenue. The management & staff were kind enough to let me broadcast via Zoom from there for the Greenspace Mayoral Forum. Hospitality workers often work late hours. When they get home, they do their chores, such as take their dog out for a walk. That is why Katie Janness was walking her dog at a late hour in Piedmont Park on the night of her brutal murder. During the Greenspace mayoral Forum, I tilted my computer so that Atlanta voters could watch her colleagues at work.
A cornerstone of my political platform is to constitute the Milledgeville Rocket Docket at Atlanta Municipal Court. Criminal insane elements will be banned from the City of Atlanta and sent to the Central State Hospital in Milledgeville. I have already commenced negotiations with city officials in Milledgeville. Mayoral Candidate Reeves means business, and If Atlanta voters choose Reeves as mayor, then Milledgeville knows intuitively that Atlanta also means business.
2. The tree canopy of the city is integral to the very identity of Atlanta. Councilmember Joyce Sheperd has played a central role as guardian angel of the Code Enforcement Division of APD. She also founded the Code Enforcement Academy for private citizens. Mayoral Candidate Reeves applied two times over two years for a slot, only to learn that the classes fill up very quickly!
3. The very sleazy Gulch bond project and the unsound tax breaks doled out by the Fulton County Development Authority have unfortunately pushed Atlanta to a de facto bankruptcy. As a Mayoral candidate, I first broached this issue at a Mayoral Forum at Clark Atlanta University. It is important for citizens of Atlanta to mentally prepare for this unfortunate eventuality. I will petition the Honorable Wendy Hagenau at the US Bankruptcy Court Northern District of Georgia to begin preparing for a Chapter IX municipal bankruptcy “ In re City of Atlanta, debtor”. Judge Hagenau can nullify the Gulch bond deal, which would greatly reduce the property taxes for hardworking Atlanta homeowners. We can get through this together. Citizens of Detroit went through a Chapter IX municipal bankruptcy, and came out of it stronger.....
4. A Reeves Administration will also constitute another special tribunal at Atlanta Municipal Court, namely the Freeh Report Rocket Docket (FRRD). It is based on the PAN AM Flight 103 bombing trial, which was held on a former American military base in the Netherlands and employed Scots Law and Scottish Judges. The FRRD is for asymmetrical issues that threaten the City of Atlanta, which are the following:
 - a. The repeated attempted theft of the Atlanta Airport by certain state legislators.
 - b. Systemic threats to the integrity of the Atlanta Banking System.
 - c. The racketeering activity of the Fulton County Development Authority

5. Philanthropy will have to step up with funding until the City of Atlanta recalibrates the tax break issue, which has robbed the City of millions of dollars in needed revenue. The budget forecast for the next four years is red ink...
6. During the Mayoral Campaign I have met many wonderful people who work for groups like Park Pride!
7. I spent one year of my life doing quasi WPA duty. The Works Progress Administration was a famous program during the FDR administration. It was a public works program that taught young adults teamwork and civic pride during the Great Depression. For example, WPA workers built the old Rutherford Hall on the UGA campus in Athens. I spent one year of my life as a construction laborer helping to build the North Oconee High School. Job Corps is a federal program at the US Department of Labor, and is similar in scope to the ideals of the WPA. The regional office of the Job Corps Program is located in the Sam Nunn Federal Center, which is across from the Five Points MARTA Station.
8. The Park System of Atlanta is open to all citizens.
9. The Code Enforcement Division needs more staff for enforcement.
10. Yes, I support a stronger tree ordinance.
11. Atlanta is a greenspace city, and we are all greenspace citizens!
